

Jesse Bergland, a wealth management advisor in Deephaven, has volunteered with The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society for over a decade.

The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society is focused on curing leukemia, lymphoma, Hodgkin's disease and myeloma, as well as improving the quality of life of patients and their families. It is the leading organization in blood cancer research, with a growing focus on pediatric blood cancer research.

Jesse began his work with the Society as a committee member helping to organize an annual fundraiser. Last year he won the "Man of the Year" fundraising competition by raising more than $173,000 for the organization with the support of his team, client and friends.

To recognize these volunteer efforts, he was named one of the 2020 Most Exceptional Community Service Award winners by Northwestern Mutual. As part of his award, Jesse was able to present The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society with a $30,000 grant to support the organization's growing focus on pediatric blood cancer research.

"From the start of my involvement with The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society, I have been blown away by the impact it is having with advancements for blood cancer treatment," said Bergland. "I'm proud to know that the funds from this grant will go toward continuing to move the needle in support of pediatric blood cancer research."

Jesse presented the check at the Big Climb MPLS at the Capella Tower on February 15, 2020. Congratulations Jesse on this wonderful recognition and for your amazing support and dedication to the LLS and the work they champion for finding a cure for cancer.
